“We are truly honored to have been shortlisted “Materials Company of the Year” for the second year in a row,” said Mr. P. Peter Pascali, CEO and President of PyroGenesis. “Just being nominated again, together with giants in the industry, is a recognition of how far we have come in such a short time. Our recent exclusive partnership to supply plasma-atomized powder to the Additive Manufacturing industry in Europe, combined with our recently announced game-changing innovation, our NexGen™ Plasma Atomization System, underscore this success. We are moving rapidly on all fronts and expect to announce further exciting developments in the very near future.”
